Quotes and Notes

"Many of the Levites, through the tendency which there is in all men to abuse ceremonies, considered that nothing more was necessary than standing idly in the Temple, and thus overlooked the principal part of their duty. The Psalmist would show that merely to keep nightly watch over the Temple, kindle the lamps, and superintend the sacrifices, was of no importance, unless they served God spiritually, and referred all outward ceremonies to that which must be considered the main sacrifice the celebration of God's praises."

- John Calvin (1509-1564), Commentary on the Psalms

"Glorify. Enjoy. There are other things involved in Christian discipleship. The Psalms of Ascents have shown some of them. But it is extremely important to know the one thing that overrides everything else. The main thing is not work for the Lord; it is not suffering in the name of the Lord; it is not witnessing to the Lord; it is not teaching Sunday School for the Lord; it is not being responsible to the Lord in the community; it is not keeping the Ten Commandments; not loving your neighbor; not observing the golden rule. 'The chief end of man is to glorify God and enjoy him forever.' Or, in the words of Psalm 134, 'Bless the Lord.'"

- Eugene Peterson (1932-2018), A Long Obedience in the Same Direction

"Lord, I want to consciously worship you all day. Then every good thing I'd see as a gift from your heart, and every bad thing as a test from your hand. Please give me a moment-by-moment God-centeredness. Amen."

- Tim and Kathy Keller, The Songs of Jesus
