Quotes and Notes

“Learn to argue in prayer with Moses, to sing with David, to be farsighted and expansive with Solomon at the dedication of the temple. Think through what it means to pray the prayer taught us by the Lord Jesus himself. Learn to pray with Paul. Such study will help us identify what to pray for, how to approach God, the proper grounds for our petitions. To restrict ourselves for a moment to the petitions in the prayers of Paul, we must ask ourselves how far the petitions we commonly present to God are in line with what Paul prays for. Suppose, for example, that 80 or 90 percent of our petitions ask God for good health, recovery from illness, safety on the road, a good job, success in exams, the emotional needs of our children, success in our mortgage application, and much more of the same. How much of Paul's praying revolves around equivalent items? If the center of our praying is far removed from the center of Paul's praying, then even our very praying may serve as a wretched testimony to the remarkable success of the processes of paganization in our life and thought.”

-D. A. Carson, Praying with Paul

“Paul calls on the Colossian Christians to remember who they are and what they have because of Christ's wondrous work of grace and truth. This work of grace and truth (Col. 1:6) is directly connected to what Christ has done in delivering all of his followers from the realm of darkness into light, from death to life (v. 13). Through Christ's work on the cross, they have been redeemed from and forgiven of their sins (v. 14). Because of this change in position from one realm to another, Paul calls on Christians to practice a new life in Christ that pleases God and bears good fruit (v. 10; cf. Matt. 7:17–19). With the knowledge, wisdom, and power that the God of “glorious might” will provide (Col. 1:9–11), believers can endure the inevitable trials and tribulations of the Christian life with patience, joy, and thanksgiving (v. 11–12). For it is the gospel itself that causes fruit to be borne in the lives of God's people (v. 6). We do not “graduate” from the gospel of grace; rather, we move more deeply into it over time, as we continue to see how profoundly sinful we are, yet how much more profoundly gracious God is.”

-The Gospel Transformation Bible

“Well, I will go down, if you will hold the rope.”

-William Carey (1761-1834) to Andrew Fuller (1754-1815),
October 1792, prior to Carey's departure to India

We are really glad you could be with us this morning. If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to ask our pastor or one of the elders. They would be glad to help you in any way they can. You can call or reach us at www.clarksvillepca.org.
